GARRISON WANTS HALF A MILLION MEN ENROLLED

Declares Country Totally Unprepared For Either Defense or Offense

[Associated Press by Federal Wireless] WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 30.—That the nation is hopelessly unprepared at the present time either to enforce any of its rights abroad or even to defend its own territory against the invasion of the army of any first-class power has been shown by a recently conducted survey of the situation from a military point of view carried out by the war department, according to an announcement made by Secretary Garrison yesterday.

The general situation, as complete reports from many sources show it to be, is bad, declares the secretary, and haste in preparing the nation for its own defense is most necessary. It is vitally necessary today that the war department should get the names of trained soldiers, ready to volunteer at the first call for men, to the number of 400,000, and towards the preparation of such a list of names the war department will now bend its energies.

Secretary Garrison proposes to go before Congress, as soon as it reconvenes, and inform the members that the administration wants to enroll and train within the next three years a force of not less than half a million men and to take such other action as will, within the next six years, provide the nation with a force of reservists, liable to call to the colors, of half a million more trained men.

The administration desires likewise to inaugurate now a system of fostering the various munition plants of the country during the time of peace, thus assuring the country of an adequate supply of munitions should a time of war ever arrive.

At the Swedish capital, the Ford mission leaders announced that they had agreed upon a definite working program. They will first submit their peace plans to the governments of the various belligerent nations. If these governments reject the proposals that the war should come to an end, the proposals will be again submitted, and the various warring nations will be appealed to in the cause of peace until the persistence of the peace advocates attracts attention and their plans receive consideration.

Before a coroner's jury investigating the death of Mrs. Mary F. Moore, who died Monday from injuries received December 29 when struck by an automobile driven by Miss Dorothy Spring, Dr. John C. Peden and Miss Spring yesterday declined to testify "on advice of attorneys."

They stated they were advised that being already under indictment and subject to trial it was not necessary to offer any evidence at the coroner's inquest. Miss Spring, who is said to be only 18 years old, appeared to be much perturbed.

After hearing a number of witnesses the jury, composed of A. V. Gear, Fred Turill, Sam Hardesty, C. A. Stuart, H. C. Brown and J. Ulub, assigned the injuries inflicted by the machine driven by Miss Spring, accompanied by Dr. John C. Peden, as the cause of Mrs. Moore's death but did not touch on the question of whether the driver was careless or the autoists wilfully failed to render aid.

Miss Spring and Dr. Peden were represented by Attorneys E. J. Botts, John W. Cathcart and F. E. Thompson, and Assistant City Attorney Crilly appeared for the prosecution.

The story of the accident was retold without variations. W. T. Rawlins, Dr. and Mrs. C. G. Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Sellers, the latter four tourists stopping at Hueston Villa, and Charles Gulick, a chauffeur, were in a machine coming down hill, and Gulick, Patterson and Sellers saw the accident. Jackson is arranging the plans for the "Treasure Hunt" this year, and all boys who are members of the Y. M. C. A. are eligible to participate.

Last year 16 boys started out, each with an envelope in his hand telling where to find the hidden treasure. Fred Kiesel was the Sherlock Holmes of the crowd and after wandering around the city for two hours finally located the treasure in the drawer of a bootblack's stand across the street from the Y. M. C. A.

This year a new plan will be followed, but the plan is to give the boys only a hint of where the treasure is located, and then they must work out the necessary clues for the location. It is expected that telegraph poles and other objects used in last year's hunt will be utilized again this season. The hunt will be started about 9 o'clock in the morning.

SO THE PEOPLE MAY KNOW

WHAT ARE YOUR LIMITATIONS.

The official record of the Publicity Department of the successful Fillese store of Boston contains these paragraphs, eloquent thumb nail sermons from the text that determination knows no limitation:

Sales volume is to be planned on the basis of the public's buying capacity and not in view of the limitations, real or imaginary, of any department of the store or of the store as a whole.

This means that planning shall always be ahead, pulling the store up to maximum efforts and results.

BUYERS READ NEWSPAPERS.

We find that the businessman, or the substantial, thoughtful person, almost without exception, is a very constant reader of newspapers.

We regard the newspaper as having the greatest influence in advertising, as we believe it has in various other fields today. We believe that its influence can be increased. The cost of advertising is large—in fact, it is tremendous, but the work that it can do more than offsets this cost when it is working at its best. We expect to be bigger and bigger users of the newspapers in future advertising, as a matter of good business for us and in order to lower selling costs by building volumes so that the consumer will continually get more for his money.—Geo. M. Brown, President General Roofing Mfg. Co.

MAKING READERS READ.

I believe, with one of the foremost advertising writers,

That an advertisement is great or little as a whole, not because of certain paragraphs.

That men forget the wording in a moment.

That they must not forget the impression.

That the greatest stories are most simply told.

That the story of the crucifixion as told by Saint Matthew is the greatest story told in any language.

And that never was a story told more simply or with less affectation.

I believe, with one of the foremost public service corporations:

That "The voice with the smile wins."

That when talking through type, as with the telephone, it pays to remember that the smile on the face, the twinkle in the eye, are inevitable to our audience.

That this being so, it is well to try to put the smile and twinkle in the tone.

And that a careful choice of words will enhance the value of what we say—never forgetting that scolding is non-productive of quick results.

I believe, with one of America's foremost merchants,

That if there is one enterprise on earth that a "quitter" should leave severely alone, it is advertising.

That to make a success of advertising one must be prepared to stick like a barnacle on a boat's bottom.—Walter G. Bryan.
